K-9S TRAINED IN NARCOTICS DETECTION

The increased sophistication of illegal narcotics trafficking has created the need for new law enforcement strategies.

K-9 Barkley (with his handler Detective Jessie Shaver, left) and K-9 Zeke (with his handler Officer Jeremy Johnson right), were acquired to target the illegal narcotics trade in our community. Both of these dogs are Springer Spaniels that have been specifically trained in narcotics detection.

The Waynesboro Police Department was able to purchase these dogs and related training in October 2014 because of the kindness of an anonymous donor who resides in the City of Waynesboro.
